night was very large, and the enjoyment quite general. There is everything in the experition to interest and attract, and we feel well assured that the large attendance of the previous evenings will be continued with unabated interest, and increased pleasure for the numerous visitors. Prof. Arnold's band contributes its quots to the enjoyment of visitors, all of whom most willingly bear evidence of the scientific skill of the musiclans that are connected with this organisation, the improvement of which, under its suic leader, is evident to the most casual of persons. There will be an attractive matine for the children this afternoon.

The terpsicorean entertainment of Madame De Gray Bennet's pupils, was an artistic exhibition, evincing athorough training and a careful endition on the part of the little girls and boys. Madame De tray Bennet has established a good repulation as successful teacher of dancing in its most novel figures and fashionable styles. Her exhibition last night was the means of attraction to many visitors to the Exposition.

in the necessary to give a synopsis of it now. Suffice to say that the character of the play is so liberal as to allow sufficient latitude for the appropriate introduction and graceful exhibition of that rare, genuine homor and versatile genus which give strength, interest and effect to the acting of Messrs Baker and Farron. In the conception of the play the ausnor, Mr. Clay M. Greene, of San Fraucisco, California, selected many of the best features, and abandoned most, it, indeed, not every vicious clement of the more popular and thrilling sensational drama which of hate years has proved so attractive. The Cut Gove is a good fit, whether on the hand of Baker as "Jacob Himmelmebr," the hero, and then as "Datch Moll," or on the hand of Farron as "Cursilina."
